PRESENTED BY THE JUNIOR CLASS

MANHATTANVILLE COLLEGE OF THE SACRED HEART

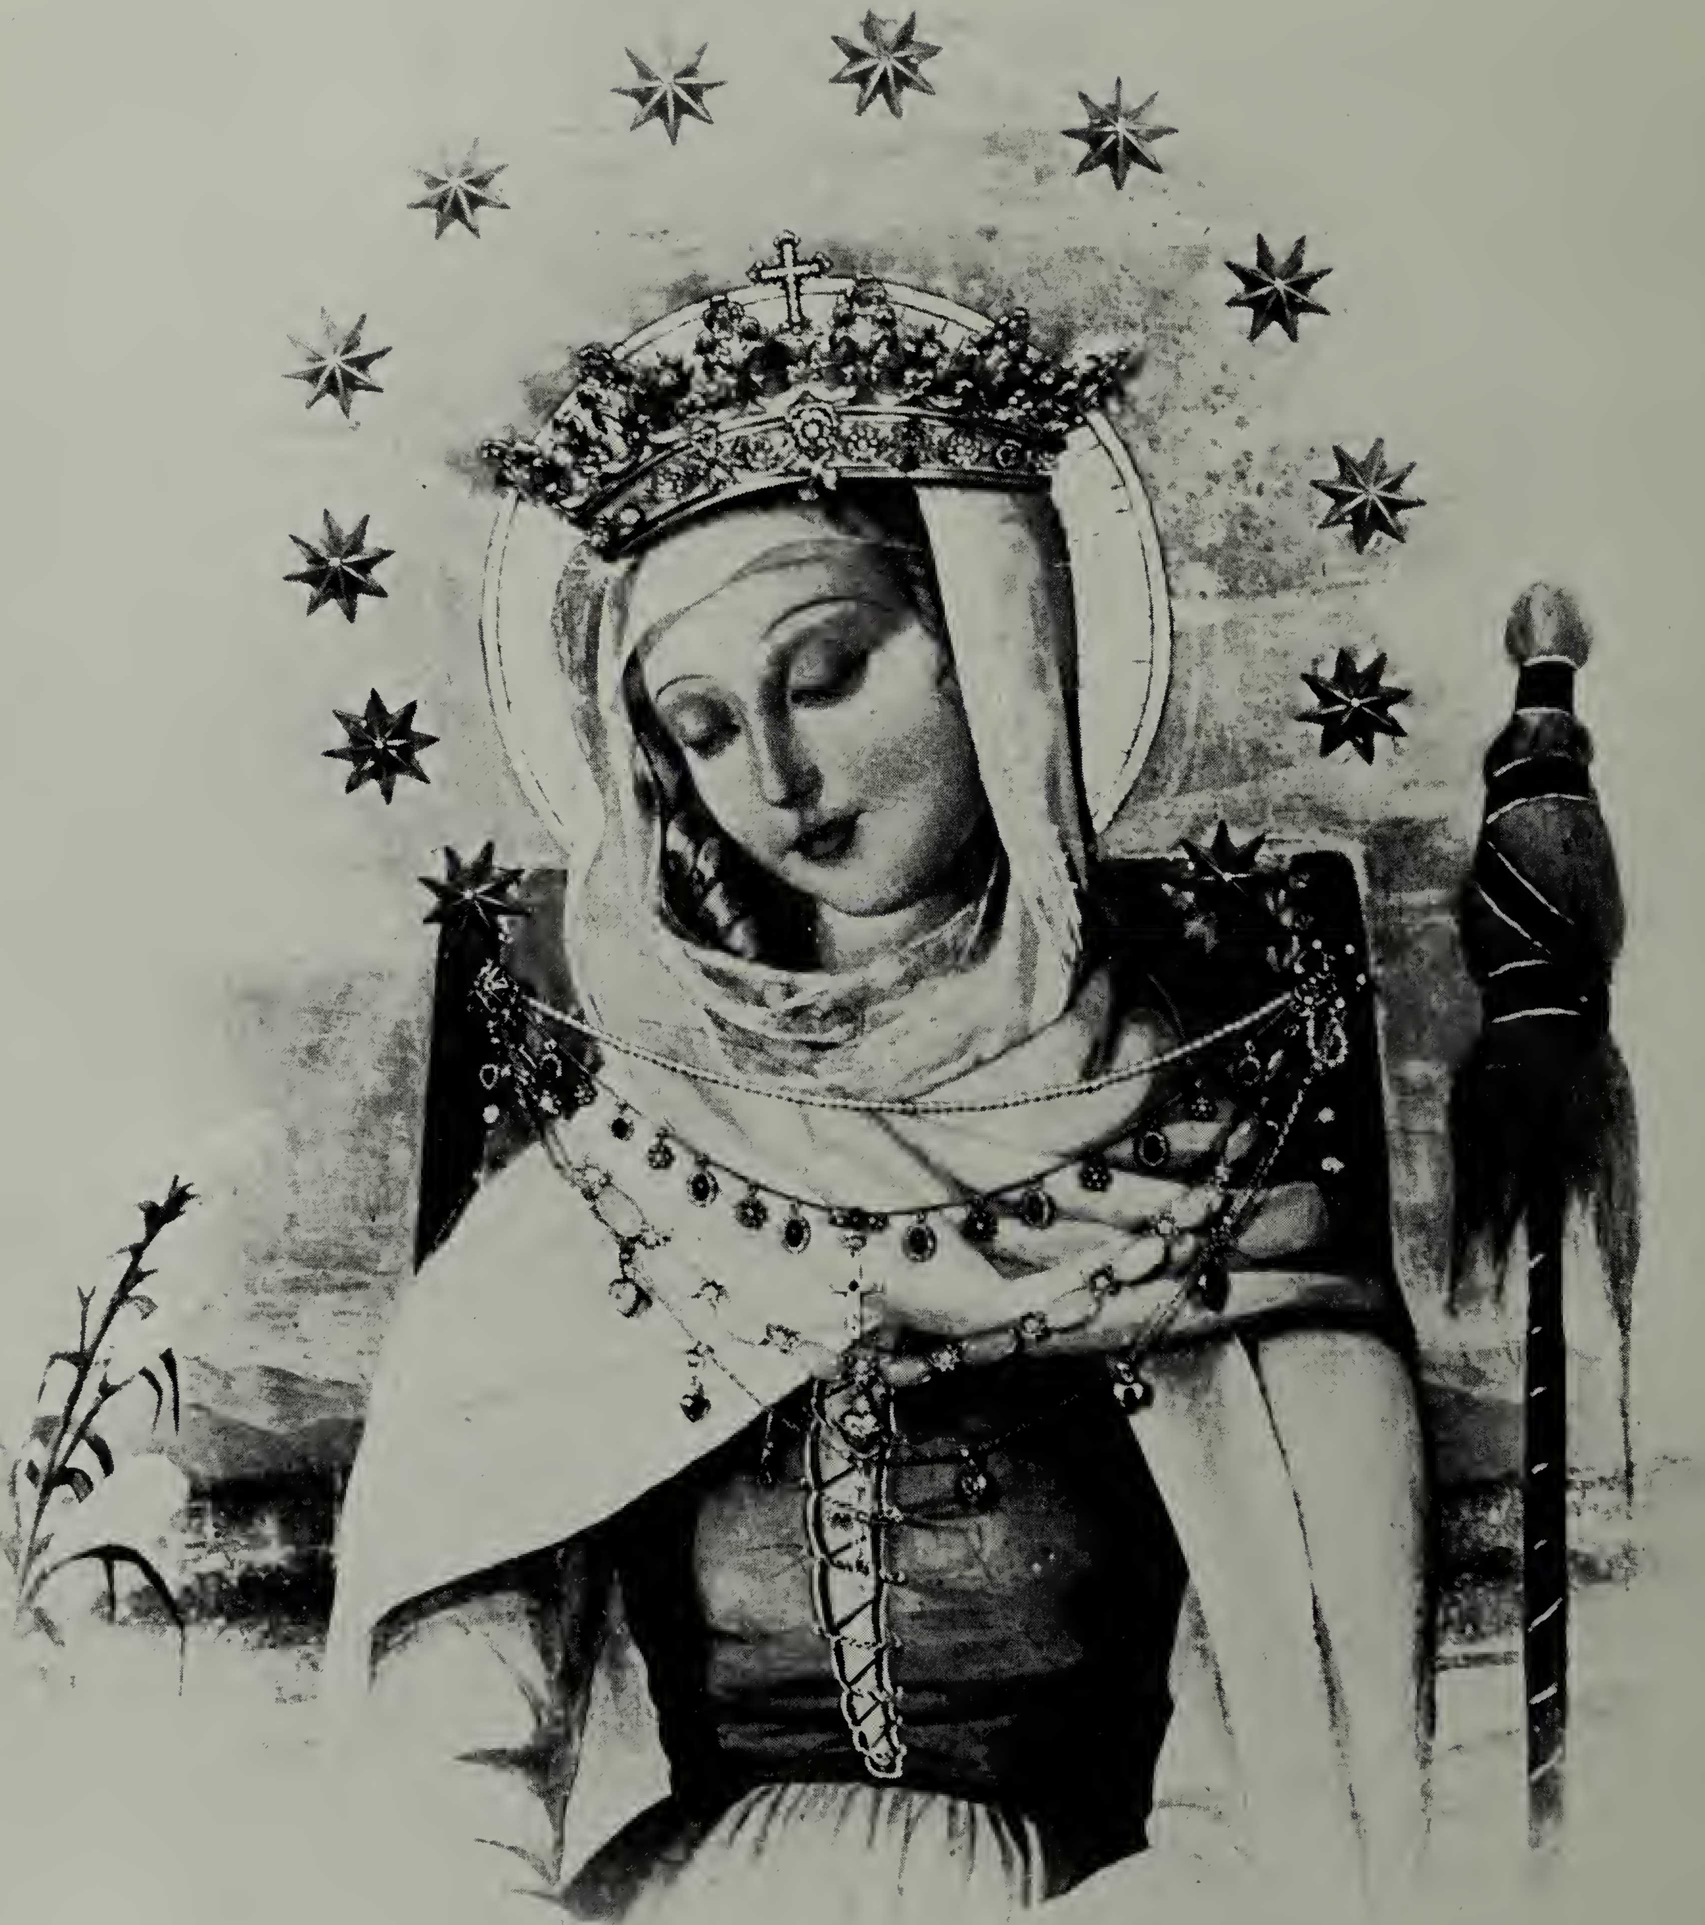
NEW YORK, NEW YORK



Dedication

MATER ADMIRABILIS is an imposing title for a schoolgirl, younger than any of us. Yet it is at this time of her life that we may most fitly think of Mary as our Mother and as the loving embodiment of everything Manhattanville means to us.

She is pictured here in repose, her work basket at her feet. Her life is the full and busy one of a student, but it is also a life of love and of giving, the life of one who is ever conscious that she lives with Him. Some say that long before the angel brought the tidings to her, Mary conceived her son in the pure charity of her heart.

Manhattanville is a college of many traditions, but she is our real tradition, and it is in this sense that we dedicate our book to her, our Mater Admirabilis.

Elma Alcée

561 West 132nd Street, New York City, New York

Father Young Academy, New York City, N. Y.

We can hardly think of Elma without hearing her beloved music. Her personality is as mellowed as is her sweet voice. From September to June, Elma is student par excellence, but the summer months find the desks turned and Elma on the teacher's podium at Pius X. A future planned to bring the knowledge of melody to children will surely bring happiness to both Elma and her young pupils.

Ellen Bastible

461 - 72ND STREET, BROOKLYN, NEW YORK

Bishop McDonnell High School, Brooklyn, N. Y.

As president of the nursing class of '48, Ellen demonstrated her capable leadership. She has the natural ability to make you want to do what she asks merely because she has suggested it. And Ellen is as gracious a helper as she is a leader. North Carolina seems to be Ellen's favorite playground judging from her frequent jaunts down to the sunny South. So Dinah, beware, because there's someone mighty fine heading Carolina-way.

64 Ashford Street, Guayama, Puerto Rico

Teddy is a human tongue-twister: words and ideas just bubble from her imagination in a stacatto rhythm. Latin to her fingertips, Teddy's racing commentaries, zest for life and inexhaustible supply of energy, leave many of us gasping in her wake. We've come to know that her mind works almost as rapidly as her tongue—she is quick to see the real issue in social and historical questions and never fails to convulse fellow classmates in her eagerness to express these ideas. Adios y buenas suertes, Teddy!

As President of the Glee Club, Mary Adele must combine the qualities of leader, diplomat, pianist, business woman, and comedienne. She does! Calm and cheerful, Mary Adele is always ready with a bright smile or a gay word. Her popularity obviously extends beyond Manhattanville for there's a saying on Third Floor Founder's "Every other time the phone rings, call Mary Adele".

Child-like guileness, light heartedness, and a shyness that speaks of depth . . . Florence is one of those perennially happy people with the Christmas sparkle all year long.

169 Beach 145th Street, Neponsit, Long Island, New York

Peggy is at once seriously thoughtful and enthusiastically witty. Whether it be pounding the piano or by adding a whimsical note to a conversation, Peggy is doing what she excels in—she is giving joy to others. Music is her first love as long-time membership in every musical activity testifies. We know Peggy will be successful, but better still, we know her unswerving ideals will never be exchanged for second-best.

Jeanne is one of those lucky people whose leadership is immediately felt, though she never forces herself on anyone. We've all heard the legend of her four famous brothers, and if they're anything like Jeanne we can see why she's so proud of them. There's a certain nonchalance about Jeanne that makes the rest of us wonder why we get so excited, anyway. Her refreshing good looks and calm composure have made Jeanne one of our favorite forty-niners.

Doris is a habitué of the Tea House, where the elite meet for the usual reason. Her calm manner, her sweet seriousness, and her sense of humor are added attractions in any group. There's nothing like a quick dip in the pool for an eye-opener, and eye-openers have been the order of the day more than once, for this little sleepyhead. Intelligent and friendly, Doris bears the mark of Manhattanville in scholarship and citizenship.

Peppy has given a gay smile to cheer us and a helping hand to lead us. She'd like to impress on us her fondness for sleeping, but when she found the time is hard to discover. For example, music has kept her busy leading the Choir through a sleepy morning practice or joining with the Madrigals on all state occasions. Still there's been time for an occasional 'crisis'. But crises and troubles soon disappear under the influence of her laughter and love. For four happy years Manhattanville's been smiling with Peppy.

A smoke-fogged Senior room and a philosophic discussion off in one corner are all the props that Eileen needs for a perfect afternoon. Debating Club serves as a stamping ground for her persuasive talents, while the Tea House takes care of that "get out and meet the people" urge. She has that contagious sort of enthusiasm for both work and play that makes everything seem frolic. Just being with Eileen is fun.

Laughter is her medicine and everyone is her patient. Peggy's monologues, her German take-offs and her portrayals of Gilbert and Sullivan villains in the Glee Club operettas have had the College rollicking for four years. Dynamic in her undertakings, she is skilled in their accomplishments, be it directing an Aquatic Club show or sailing at Bay Shore. Peggy puts people at ease with as much facility as she makes them laugh. Her typical gesture, the pat on the back, is symbolic of her whole self. We wish there were ten of her.

Pat, like Mother O'Byrne, can conduct a meeting and knit furiously at the same time. Consequently she managed to complete a red dress which by comparison has made all the argyles and cable knit sweaters in the college seem amateur. However, Pat's perserverence extends beyond the field of knitting. As head of N. F. C. C. S., she has been a scintillating speaker and worthy representative. Whether it's the Young Republican Party, summers at Point Pleasant, or just baby-sitting, Pat is always interested in what she does and does it well. Keep up the good work!

We consider ourselves lucky indeed when Pat's connected with any project in which we're interested. Her cooperation and clever ideas have been the life force of many a committee. We've chuckled as The Car chugged off campus, jam-packed with Long Island bound week-enders. A devotee of the Hokey Pokey dance and hillbilly music, she brings to any gathering an effervescence and irrepressible gayety. Pat's the girl who remembers and does things when everyone else has forgotten. Her sensibilities are as warm and active as her slow, New Orleans drawl.

Patty's not only a jack-of-all trades, she has mastered many of them. She has been a gracious hostess at our many tea dances, a persistent plugger for the Essay and the chief exponent of the theory that life begins on the weekends. Patty brings a lift into the dullest gloom. Her zest for life leaves us breathless in the wake of her '110 or flying figure skates but not so breathless that we can't call after her—good luck and thanks, Patty.

Sympathetic understanding and maturity have made Titsa a natural friend and confidante in the class of '49. Her intense interest in the field of medicine is coupled with a quiet intelligence that is steady and penetrating. She is an enthusiastic sportsman with swimming and bowling way up on the list of favorites. As for post-Manhattanville plans, may we offer a toast to a long and happy married life.

Joanne's absorption with people and ideas has been manifest from Freshman Forum days to her senior theses on "Man's Will in Modern Drama". She loves travel and has done more moving about in the course of four years than anyone we know. Her short stories have revealed her artistry and understanding. The articles she whips up for the Centurion abound with clever wit. Joanne's pretty expressive hands are indicative of doing everything gracefully and with her whole self.

St. Lawrence Academy, New York, N. Y.

We know June as the pert little blonde with a flair for the dramatic. Her kindness and willingness to help have made her popular on and off campus. An opera devotee, she has developed the knack of enjoying to the full the better things of life. A summer voyage to Italy can only enrich and heighten the love of fine culture that is so much a part of June.

We can't imagine what will happen to the piano in the Senior Room when Shorty leaves. Her four years have been one gay round of running to the Tea House, spur-of-the moment jaunts downtown and taking in every movie from 125th Street to the Music Hall. We couldn't keep up with her many times and she would probably expire at our slow pace. There have been times when Shorty's logic escaped us but never a time when we didn't admire her strong convictions. It's been fun, Shorty.

Her friendliness coupled with a certain likable hint of humor have made her one of our favorite people among the forty-niners. There's a mathematical neatness about everything she does—it helped a lot with her major! Dot has a flair for clothes and always looks like the proverbial person out of the bandbox. All these things, plus unsophisticated poise and simple charm, add up to a wonderful person whom we hate to say goodbye to.

Pat rates aces high with all of us and it's not because she's quite a girl on the courts either. She mixes the business of a college curriculum with the pleasure of extra-curricular activities—and what evolves? a sensible, well-rounded Pat with a flair for apt remarks on the foibles of life. She's found time between hectic class games and complicated N. S. A. meetings to endear herself to many of us forever. Pat's score with the villains will always be love to love.

Senior Class

TODAY marks a far cry from the era when our seniors were mere "beasts of burden", held up to ridicule in their donkey outfits and scoffed at for their renditions of the "Donkey Serenade". One fleeting moment of glory came soon after, when, at a Student Government assembly, not one Freshman was the recipient of demerits.

Still, that year in its more serious aspects, marked the establishment of the seniors' most integral traditions. Reverend Mother Benziger's hope that joy would always characterize them was realized from the beginning. The first line of the class song, written before the significance of Reverend Mother's wish had impressed the class, was simply an expression of their already present spirit, "Sing with joy Class of '49".

Making their formal debut to the college, they presented the operetta, "Ermine". That was the spring when natives opened their copies of Look Magazine to behold the tennis form and the "American Lookhands" of Grace Ross.

As Centenary Sophomores, they directed their special knack for getting things done well toward the production of the Pageant and toward the thousand and one details of a year that called forth hard work and jubilee. The "Venerable Ladies" of the rough and tumble hazing days of autumn were serenely poised that May evening when they sang their Serenades from printed programmes which were one of the nice touches, (along with the many long week-ends and the rarity of papers) that came as birthday presents to Manhattanville.

The following autumn, the forty-niners took up their picks to head for fresh gold mines. They discovered the Bohemian splendors of novel reading in Lower Deck, of longer week-ends and of longer bridge sessions in the Junior Room. It was now their turn to protect their Freshman sisters from the vicious assaults of the Sophomore hazers. This they did unobtrusively and lovingly. "The Night of January 16th" sent properly Halloween-like chills down the spines of the audience, but it also provided some comic interludes which have become classics in the Senior repertoire. This was the year, too, that Priam traveled over fifteen hundred miles to bring something of the exoticism of India to the Class of '49.

Last September, the now truly "Venerable Ladies" brought their joy and their high capabilities into the leading offices of the college. The last class of nurses to be graduated rejoined their classmates at Manhattanville and passed their stiffer than ever State Boards without a casualty.

The class's devotion to the week-end was expressed by the formation of the T. G. T. F., a society whose purpose is simply the expression of that devotion on a week-day. The activities of an organization known as the B. W. S. soon filled the time formerly devoted to these problems. Within a short time, every Senior was affiliated with the Bird Watchers, as also were various members of the faculty.

A carnival, replete with spook-house, hawkers, clowns and a night club featuring singing waiters and a floor show provided an entertainment which was wonderfully different.

Senior is an awesome word, but Mother Sullivan's class had no reason to be awed by the responsibility it implies. The thunder of applause accorded Tish and Jean at their first assembly of the year, bore witness of the college's respect and affection for them and their class that had elected them.

Junior Class

It's hard to believe that two years have already sped by and we've achieved the rank of upper classmen. As we've grown closer and closer to the loving heart of Manhattanville, we might almost regret those two finished years if we hadn't come to realize what growing up means. With Mother Farley's help and tireless efforts to lead us in the way of truth, we've learned to love and remember the past, plant our ideals firmly in the future and live and work for the moment so that we can reach those ideals.

This September brought a subtle and significant change into our class character. There is a certain depth and enthusiastic cooperation added to our former good intentions and impulsive generosity.

We've established legal residence in Lower Deck, but we've made good use of our Friday night freedom running over to our Third Floor Annex.

We eagerly watched the arrival of our wonderful sister class with a certain superior "old girl" attitude as they tred lightly over the awesome hours of Orientation Week. We've found them happy, as enthusiastic about "the hill" as we are, and we've seen them establish a real place for themselves.

With winter's somewhat delayed arrival, the skiing week-ends were off to a gay start. Remember the books in Scotty's skis to keep them from warping?

Spring wandered around and we adjourned to the gym roof—to finish our term paper, naturally.

But woven through all these gay, happy months has been a united happiness and growing love for each other and all that is Manhattanville. From a class whose vocal abilities weren't always appreciated we've become the singingest bunch on the hill—the acoustics in the Junior Room did it. But it's the little things like that which have made this year so wonderful.

Front Row: M. C. Sheridan, C. Kerin, A. Chamberlin, C. Carroll, M. Fuller, M. Dunn. Second Row: S. Towner, F. Taschereau, M. E. Salazar, C. Castellini, E. Melchior, M. Daley, M. In trying to avoid "escapism" we've come right up against the reality and meaning of life. And it's in the tone of love and friendship that we urge our Freshman Class on, extend our deepest sympathies to the Sophomores and say goodbye to our oldest and dearest friends, the Seniors.

We look forward to next year as the best of the best! As Seniors, it hardly seems possible!

All hail, Class of '50,
Our voices resound in thy praise
With loyalty and friendship
We laud our college days.
Through long years of toil,
Years of gladness, years of fullest joy,
We praise thy name—
Verify thy fame.
We praise thee, Manhattanville, today.

Sophomore Class

It was all in the cards. From the first excitement of hazing to the last note of Serenades, the Sophomores proved that they were no longer the "wrecks" of yesterday but the upperclassmen of tomorrow. The Class of '52 received a thorough and very amusing hazing, as they bowed to the wishes of their superiors, the dignified dealers, the cute tricks, and the trump. After several hectic days the Freshmen were declared "aces", and the whole College saluted the Sophomores for carrying out hazing in a way both efficient and fun for everyone.

"Manhattanville Merry-Go-Round" was rehearsed and produced in record time. We loved our vicarious trip through New York. Conducted by Master-of-Ceremonies Loewe; we toured Manhattan from the Bowery to the Stork Club. South American dances and an hilarious Magician Show brought cheers from the audience, but the finale of "New York's My Home", sung by the entire cast, brought the house down. An after-theater supper was served in the gym and over sodas and cookies everyone decided that the Class of '51 had scored another tremendous hit.

Front Row: K. McGarrahan, B. Heide, A. Tracy, M. A. Adams, J. DesLoge, B. Kirby. Second Row: M. E. Kelly, M. W. Henry, F. Pugliese, L. Stewart, P. Tighe, D. Spanburg. Third Row: M. Sobrino, M. Although Sophomore year is full of woe, this year's class came out smoothly, only slightly daunted by "volumes" of English Reading and the perils of European Survey. Someone must have told them, "Keep your chin up", and "Put your best foot forward", for even during the doldrums of exams we could count on the Sophomores to keep the College laughing, Requiescat in pace. They took in their stride the three aspects of the Arthurian Legend and the Treaty of Kuchjikanarchi, and the upperclassmen who remembered with horror the pitfalls of Cave and European History were both awed and pleased.

Grey Alley became more like Tin Pan Alley this year, for the Class of '51 spent long hours in Mother Morgan's office playing records of everything from boogie-woogie to Bach. Wherever there is music in the College, the Sophomores are sure to be contributing a great part.

Front Row: M. R. Philipps, M. L. Tomei, J. Egan, J. Cavanaugh, M. Joy, A. Kennedy, C. Yulo, M. L. Loewe. Second Row: M. A. Randazzo, E. Kelly, B. Smith, P. Holland, M. Hargedon, Y. Skeffrey, M. With Serenades the year ended on a happy note. The Sophomores lived up to Mother Morgan's fondest hopes and once again sang their way into the hearts of the college. Moving their tassels another notch around the mortarboard, the Class of '51 becomes upperclassmen. It will be a lucky Class of '53 to have such wonderful Junior sisters.

Freshman Class

THERE is always joy in welcoming a new Freshman class within the love of Manhattanville. The Class of '52 arrived on September 14, bedecked in their own happiness, most assured and completely at home on the Heights. The population of Seventh Heaven was once again filled with angelic Villains. But this poise of the first day was soon dispelled by the awesome tests of Orientation Week, and our Freshmen emerged with all the wide-eyed suspense and expectancy that could please the hearts of the upperclassmen.

Was there ever so animated a deck of cards as the Frosh during hazing? They "shuffled" down the corridors and played their own inimitable game of "52 Pick-up".

The inevitable "chairs" were introduced to them the hard way. But they still had enough pep to bounce back with a hockey game that set us in our wheelchairs and them in the victor's corner, the noble custodians of "The Cup".

Front Row: S. Gorman, M. Morgan, C. Everett, J. C. Connor, N. Moran, E. Blesius. Second Row: J. Rovira, V. Condone, E. McCann, B. Guida, J. Danahy, M. Arango, G. Lawston-Johnson. Third Row: M. E. Pride in our new little sisters grew as we watched their good judgment in electing Julie Kammerer, president, with Jean Sheridan as vice president. Through their leadership they have brought out the strength and ingenuity of their classmates. Willingly they have encountered each task with the eagerness of a new adventure. Their wonder and enjoyment of all the good things on campus have given a renewed appreciation of their worth.

The welcome mats on the Tea House and Gym have been well worn since September, but the welcome is still as bright as ever.

In fellowship and union they have completed their first year. They have wanted the best and in every instance they have given nothing less. They have become part of that vital organ, the Heart of Manhattanville.

Manhattanville, thy praises echo
Upon the heights and through the halls
For joys and friendships fondly started
And spirit given to us all.
Thy children guarded from all sorrow
Held strong the Class of '52
Forget the cares that come tomorrow
And sing their praise to you.

THROUGH the Children of Mary we have explored the reaches of the ideal Christian Life. The Children of Mary have taken our own Mater, Our Lady of Manhattanville and have dedicated their lives to making her Our Lady of the World. They live securely and fervently, with Mater at their side in every harried or peaceful moment of college life. They have found, in the council, girls whose lives reflect the simplicity and loving trust which is the goal of every real Child of Mary.

"We are thine and therefore His . . . "

Student Government

J. Sheridan, J. Casey, C. Carroll, J. Garside, Vice President; T. Coakley, President; A. O'Neil, M. Joy, J. Kammerer.

In a thoroughly self-governing body it is the right of the citizens to express their opinions and criticisms to the elected officers. So it is at Manhattanville. Through our Student Government officers the individual voices of the college are heard and heeled. They are elected because of their ability and sincerity but most of all, because they are friends to everyone and can therefore best represent the attitudes and ideas of everyone. There are bound to be infractions of the rules but we stand behind our officers whole-heartedly and respect their judgment. As long as we do this, the college constitution can never be undermined. If we could give the Student Government officers, and in particular, Tish and Jean, a verbal vote of confidence, they would hear the resounding cry of four hundred and sixty-odd "ayes".

Welfare

Seated: P. Flynn, V. Roney, T. Coakley, C. Rooney. Standing: M. A. Adams, C. Minahan, A. Noyes.

"It is the purpose of Welfare to make Manhattanville like a home." Thus spoke Tuni at the beginning of the year. In carrying out this ideal, we have tried in every way possible to show courtesy and thoughtfulness in our attitudes toward one another, both at college and away. Under the constant guidance and good example of the Welfare officers, the tendency to slip in our manners, under the pressure of exams and activities, is seldom yielded to.

In everything, from encouraging us to keep the gym neat to discouraging unsocial practices the Welfare officers have succeeded in giving us a criterion for good living which will be with us long after college years.

Catholic Action

IN the present time of unrest and terrible uncertainty, Catholic Action has come to be a positive, integrating force in all our lives. It's been actually easy to follow Kay's leadership of love and zeal. Our efforts have become so much more than mere activity; we have learned that a Catholic life without the rock firm foundation of Catholic Action is something easily displaced. And so we have gone off eagerly to Friendship House, to our young friends at the Foundling Hospital, or just across the street, happy in the knowledge that we are "Doing the Truth in Charity".

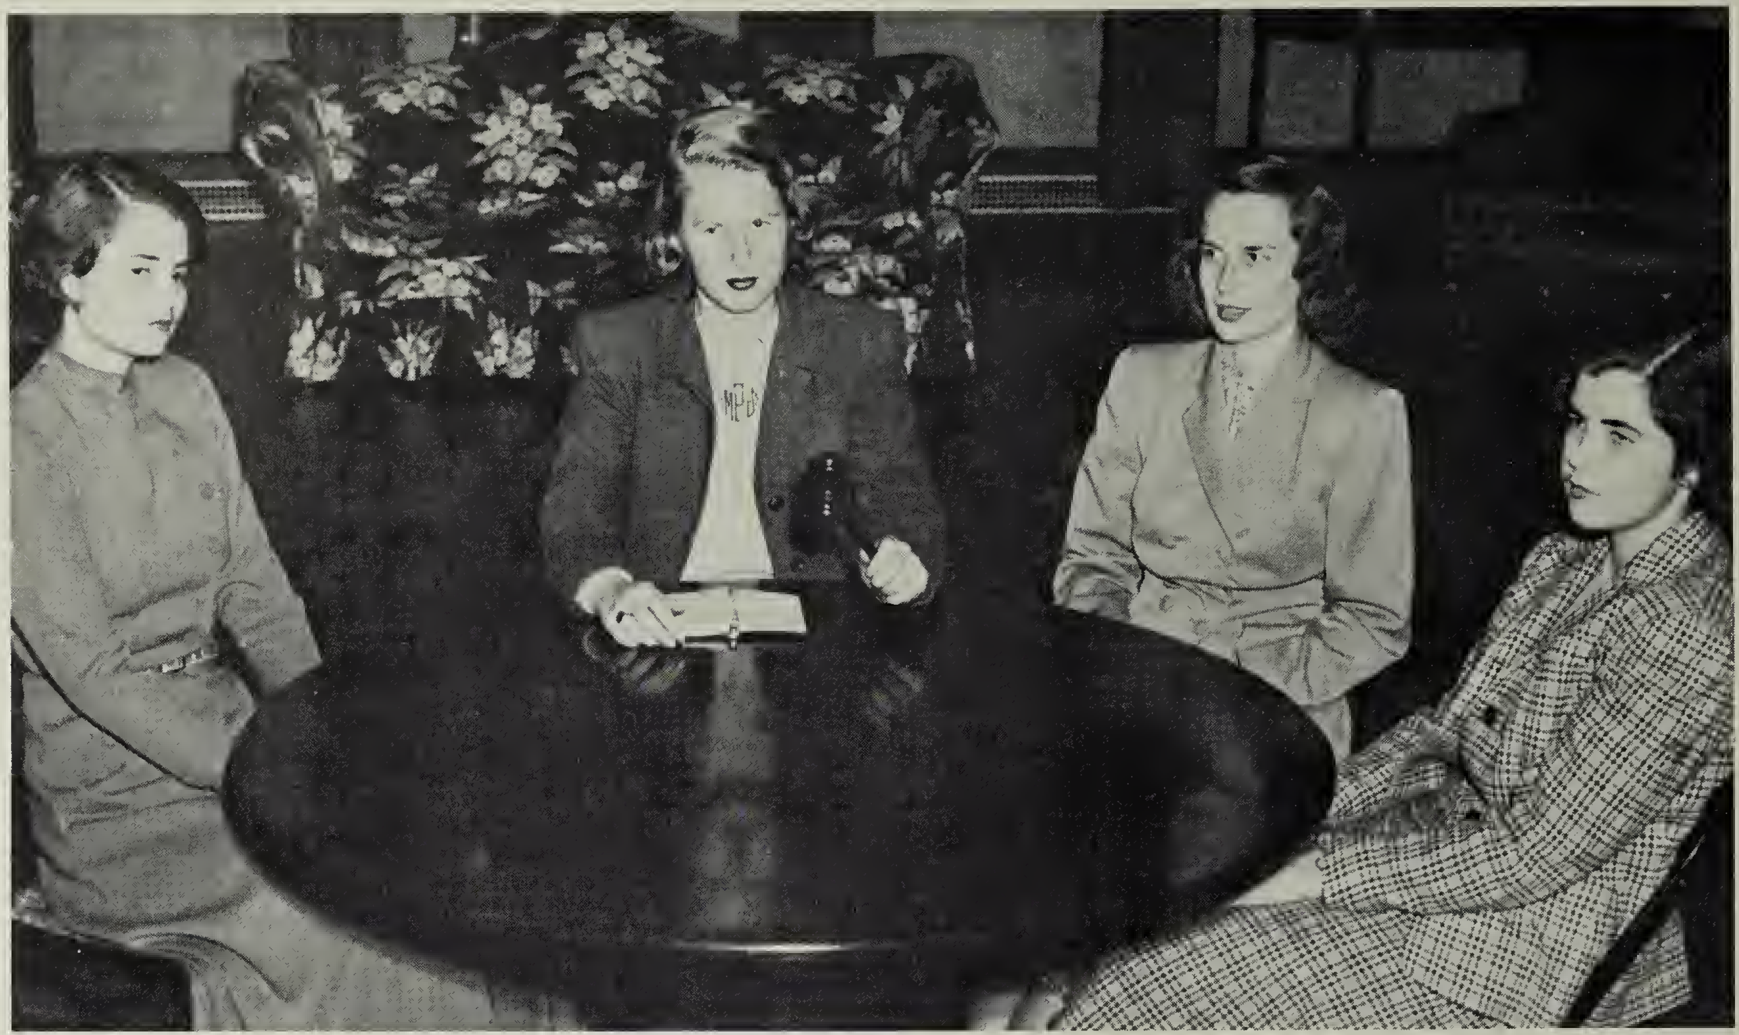
Seated: B. Clifford, A. Crossley, C. McGowan, A. M. McDonald, K. Cooley, Chairman; R. White, A. Neilan, P. Duffy. Standing: J. McGowan, P. Daley, M. Z. Kelly, J. Brennan, M. Dunn.

Choir

A. Comper, P. Comper, President; M. Couzens.

CHOIR at Manhattanville is one of our most precious whole-hearted gifts to God.

Through Peppy's patient leadership and under Mother Morgan's selfless devotion to those dawn and dusk practices, we have united in joy with the simplicity and wonder of the Liturgy. The chant has become so vital in our lives thanks to those solemn yet glorious moments at Mass, that we have found ourselves caught up in the fervour of Mother Morgan's creed—"sing your prayers".



Ann Crossley, Vice President; Margot Price, President; Joy Flynn, Secretary; Kay Baxter, Program Committee.

Debating Club

Debating Club certainly made big news around "the hill" this year. Not only were they invited to speak over Fordham's station, but they outdid themselves in solving the Spanish question during the N. F. C. C. S. tournament. The numerous inter-collegiate debates gave every member a chance to really participate— St. Peter's, Good Counsel, New Rochelle, all felt the weight of their clever arguments. Yes, thanks to Margot's tireless leadership, coupled with Mother Parton's and Mr. McClelland's constant encouragement, Debating Club had become a vital, effective, organization that we can well be proud of.

Mother Morgan's slide rule voice and inimitable humor keep things happy and Mary Adele carries out her duties as President and music-maker with equal ease. The Fordham and Manhattan concerts were greatly appreciated and the dancing which followed them drew to a close two wonderful evenings. Our own Carols heralded the Christmas season with the sparkle of tinsel and the joy in our hearts.

Spring brought a new present to the college . . . a festival of song, with the loveliest of melodies, beautifully sung But every year brings the present of music, all wrapped up in merriment and tagged—"From the Glee Club to Manhattanville, with love."

CHRISTMAS CAROLS

"Richard of Bordeaux"

Dramatic Club

The long-hoped for appearance of Manhattanville's thespians on the Fordham radio station actually materialized this year. Those collegians who could procure an instrument with frequency modulation excitedly heard their friends' debuts on a series of programs in line with New York's Golden Jubilee celebration.

Under the never-failing and tireless direction of Mother Maguire, Mrs. O'Connell and President Agnes Levering, Dramat launched an ambitious program last November with the swashbuckling "Richard of Bordeaux". The holiday bustle found Jean MacEachern and the "blue jean brigade" laboring on the technical aspects of the traditional Christmas wishes. Laurence Housman's "Sister Gold" was presented to Reverend Mother on her Feast in February.

With the advent of spring our parents were entertained on Parents Day by the appropriately frothy presentation of "The Brandons." Mother Maguire's adaptation of the Angela Thirkill novel provides a hard-working year with a really Grand Finale.

Athletic Association

Snow, rain, or night may fall but the teams keep in action. Except for a heart-breaking day at Long Island, the Varsity came through undefeated. The Freshman donned the hockey laurels after a thrilling up-and-down season. Often practices continued until dark for the will to win, or to lose well, was the ambition of every team member.

The underlying force behind all this spirit is the Athletic Association. Under the spirited leadership of Ann Louise and Quig, and the ever interested guidance of Miss Holland and Mrs. "D", we have learned the ideals of good sportsmanship. From the lowest substitute on the badminton team to the biggest hockey star, we appreciated their unfailing generosity and energy. The teams felt an especially deep gratitude for Mother O'Gorman's enthusiastic cheering and optimism. The Varsity and intramural competition are an integral part of Manhattanville life, so to keep the spirit alive under the encourgement of the A. A.—play on!

MANHATTANVILLE is privileged to be the headquarters of the N. C. I. J. under Clare McGowan's leadership. The Commission concerns itself with the application of Catholic and democratic principles to the solution of minority group problems. Through the medium of the Interracial Quarterly, the Commission tries to educate the student population of the United States toward a realization of the moral, social, and economic issues involved. The Commission sponsored once again an annual "March of Quarters" campaign designed to provide Catholic scholarships for Negro students. The New York Regional Commission has been especially interested in the development of the Speakers' Bureau, whose work it is to educate the youth of America in the principles of Interracial Justice. The week of February twenty-seventh was dedicated to the fostering of Interracial Justice. National contests were held, lectures were given, and debate was conducted, and the spirit of zeal in charity prevailed.

The Mother Dammann Interracial Study Club serves as an information center on Interracial problems, not only for Manhattanville, but for the entire N. F. C. C. S. It studies phases of the question peculiar to each section of the country and advises the National Commission as to remedies where necessary. Members of the club, under the chairmanship of Peggy Daley, assist in the work of the Speakers' Bureau throughout the New York region.

English Club and Essay

ENGLISH CLUB OFFICERS
D. Cole, B. Street, President; B. Reilly.

THE purpose of the English Club is to bring together students who are particularly talented in writing of any type and interested in literature, both classic and current. The college may submit poems, plays, essays, short stories, criticisms or even old term papers in order to gain admission. This year the Club took The Drama as its theme. At the first meeting the members divided into groups and presented Humpty-Dumpty in such dramatic forms as a Gilbert and Sullivan operetta, a comedy of manners, or a Greek tragedy. At successive meetings, Father Nagle, head of the Blackfriars, spoke; discussions were held on the current theater, and several plays written by students were produced. Under the inspiring guidance of Mother Williams and President Betty Street, the English Club again proved itself an interesting and hard-working organization. A prize was given to the member, who received the most rejection slips from outside publications in hopes that the talents of the Club may extend beyond the limits of Manhattanville.

The Essay compiles our literary efforts par excellence and reflects the ideas of a mature and thoughtful student body. The College and Alumnae responded enthusiastically to "Essay Day", the deadline for submitting contributions. Under the competent editorship of Patty Foley, the Essay is again a magazine we can be proud of.

N. F. C. C. S., N. S. A. and Relief

The Relief Commmittee kept the college as occupied with having a good time as they were with giving. In November, the Bridge Tea and Fashion Show by Altman's made it possible to give $2,100 to needy students abroad, while providing a wonderfully pleasant afternoon for our mothers, our friends, and ourselves.

The "helpful heapfuls," a mountain of old clothes overflowing an entire room, were given to Mother O'Byrne on her feast. In the spring, Mim Russo and her committee were typically hard at work on the fashion show and luncheon for our mothers. A book collection and a car raffle supplemented the continuous clothing drives and swelled the flow of help to our fellow students throughout the world, through N. F. C. C. S. channels.

Our delegates, Pat Duffy and Margie Burch, represented us throughout the year in the National Federation of Catholic College Students. Our chapter concentrated strongly on its work in behalf of interracial justice. Claire McGowan, National Chairman of the Interracial Commission, flew out to Chicago twice during the course of the year to attend national sessions. In February, Interracial Justice Week was observed here with a March of Quarters drive to provide scholarships for Negro students, a debate, and the announcement of the poster and short story contest winners.

The N. S. A. made great strides in this third year of our membership in the region. Abbyann Day was elected regional treasurer of the Purchase Card System, whereby we were allowed to buy at a special discount in designated stores. Every week-end "native" was kept busy directing the flow of befuddled delegates to the Blue Room or the Lounge.

The Centurion

THE newspaper is still Manhattanville's "baby" in the sense that it is the youngest publication, although each issue of its second year has marked its growth. Building on the excellent groundwork established by last year's board, a reorganization established staffs for the business, circulation, and typing aspects of publication. New staff members were taken on as a result of winning articles submitted in Centurion sponsored contests. The board held Tuesday meetings in the Benziger Building to plan for and to produce a bigger and better Centurion. In May, the Junior members took over the editorship of the graduation issue to permit Senior members of the board a well-earned retirement without those "deadline blues". The year's chief goal, to make the college newspaper an organ of student opinion, had been realized.

A PARTY atmosphere provided the Blue Room with the gayest soirees held there in many a year. During supper intermissions, some gathered around the piano to sing, while others simply enjoyed the combination of the chicken salad, convivial company, and Beth Flanagan's playing.

The pre-Christmas Charity Ball was so successful, both financially and socially, that hopes ran high that another tradition had been established.

The Senior Prom on April 30th, and the very soignee tea-dance at the Cotillion Room the next day drew all our thanks, to the Alumnae and to Marie and to Marie's committee, for providing the year's crowded social calendar with such a piece de resistance.

In Retrospect

As they look back over these all-too-brief four years, the Seniors have memories which should make them all justly proud and happy to have been a "forty-niner." All the way from their first big performance Ermine, to the status of "Venerable Ladies," to their meeting the Tower deadline, and now—to the happy fulfillment of their work with graduation in the offing—they've had a wonderful time and been a wonderful class. When they arrived they were labeled "beasts"; as they leave we'd like to say that the "forty-niners" have lived up to their mining ancestors and left us a wealth of golden memories and ideals.

In Appreciation

We would like to take this opportunity to express our gratitude to the friends who have done so much to make this issue of the Tower possible.

We are grateful to:

Reverend Mother Fitzgerald, Mother O'Byrne, Mother Weston; for all the quiet encouragement and support you have given us.

Mother Brady; for the time and trouble we cost you.

Miss Cave; for your advice, your patience and your unselfish sacrifice of time.

Miss Todd and Mrs. Kurecki; for your interest and advice regarding the art work in our book.

The College; for their wonderful and whole-hearted support.

Those Parents and Friends; who were advertisers and patrons.

Mr. Ball and White Studios; for their cooperation and patience with the novice publishers.

AND

Mother Farley and the Junior Class; for giving us not only the material but also the spiritual support needed to make this book a success.
